Even the great i beral leader. An exchange remarks upon this, that "however humiliating it may be for a minister of England to confess, that as a private gentleman and a partisan, he descended to misrepresentation when endeavoring to make and carry a point before an excited and unample of a common custom, especially prevaent in this country:" a truth which is the more generally admitted as the mass of soters become more intelligent and more independent. There are charges which are legitimate for use against a man when ne bees prominent as a candidate for office at he hands of the people, and it is the duty of arges, and then to present them to the public. But there has been entirely too much disposition on part of the newspapers of this ntry to rely solely upon abuse to carry an alection, but every well intentioned mun learns, when the heat of the fight s over, that if he would retain his own, i' self-respect and obtain the respect of othwe that the loose vituperative language of the mere partisan as a private citizen, cannot and must not be indulged in when in official or responsible positions. Take a man from or a street ranter and place him on a jury, or let him sit as a justice of the peace even, sides to every puestion and learns to drop epithets and abuse and listen with respectful attention to his political or secturian oppo-Billingsgafe and misrepresentation make up a great deal-or the current chaft of partisan gatherings on the street and in the convention. But let the champion ranter a: any of these places once be elected to a reneible position, and if he has any manli-

The platform of the republican party in its plank on the Chinese question bears the im-press of the efforts of the Pacific coast members. It will not suit, nor was it framed to suit the views of the rabble which congregetes on the sand lots at San Francisco and howi appliance to the words of Denis Kear-ney. The real working men of the country, are not in that crowd at all; they stand aloof P. E. BRIGHAM'S Cyrus Noble Whisky and separate from all such conspirators not are not in that crowd at all; they stand alor only against the peace and good order of the which workingmen derive their living and their prosperity. The republicans know that the only way which the svis of excessive grees and this action is urged upon the congreen of the United States by the highest au-thority in the party. The anti Chinese plank is the strongest that could have been made consistent with reason, and the party appeals to reasonable men only. On the action of congress depends the hope of a remedy which have admitted to be required by the exisencies of the case. The platform wisely submits the question to the power which alone, under the constitution, and the laws of pations sauthorized to act. given proper credit to the city police force for the excellent order which was observed at election had week. The police force is paid for doing that sort of thing, and under its present management it has attended strictly to dist duty. Would it not be well to con-tinus Mr. Skidmore as police commissioner, as the public have the sesurance that, as far as his management of the force is con it will be held, as it has been heretofore, to a strict performance of its duty? It is the wish of the laxpayers and citizens generally that some man be elected who is not connected with any ring, and who will act independent of everybody; who is desirous of putting the preservation of the peace and good order of the city in the hands of men whose object is to get their hands into the treasury.

The London Spectator is amazed, as it may well be, at the repidity with which the United States government is paying off the na-tional debt, but still more at the willingness of the people to submit to terration for the purpose. It tells the exact truth when it mays: "It is apparent from all French, German and American recent history, and, as we believe from that of Great Britain, that lemocracy is not impatient of texation at all. that it likes a full treasury, that it is inclined to spend, and that it will give whatever its leaders declare to be essential to the welfare of the state. " It looks a reckless thing to say, of the sense. At 170x3 a reaxiess thing to say, but we do not believe into be settled that this country would not bear very strong measures indeed for the reduction of the debt."

The levee property owned by the city, is : the subject of very extended consideration just at this time and the common council is besieged with propositions looking toward some disposition. The effort being made by a railway company to have it condemned for depot purposes was noticed yesterday. There are parties who are desirous of purchasing it, outright, and another proposition is pending to lease it for a term of ten years. It would cartainly be proper, if it is intended to lease or sell it : ries the public know the fact and elim competition in its disposition.

A very prominent democrat, now in he city, who is well acquainted with General Gardeld, remarked yesterday concerning the republican caudidate for the presidency will not vote for him, but am prepared, by a .mg sequaintance with General Garfield, to derive any charge against his character for aminy or integrity. He is a radical republiman ' A very handsome compliment comme for suca a source.
